The Millennium Forum is a free development opportunity that was approved by the Board of Supervisors in 1999 as a way for county staff to commemorate the beginning of the new millennium. Operated under the auspices of the County Executive’s Office, the Millennium Forum exposes county leaders at all levels to information about changes in technology, demographics, economics and culture that could impact county operations.

In the past five years, the Millennium Forum has featured thought-provoking speakers such as former White House Bureau Chief Helen Thomas, Pulitzer Prize-winning analyst Tom Friedman; Judith “Miss Manners” Martin; and more than a dozen other subject-matter experts.

Feedback to the Millennium Forum has been uniformly strong. We expect that our FY06 speakers will also generate rave reviews. If you have any comments or questions about the series, please contact Millennium Forum planning committee chair Sam Clay at 703-324-8380, or by e-mail at Edwin.Clay@fairfaxcounty.gov.
